Soil District Elections

The first soil conservation district to be organized in Virginia was issued a certificate of organization December 16, 1938 Since that date 22 soil conservation districts embracing 87 counties have been organized by landowners of the state.

Although Virginia Districts are receiving assistance from several state and federal agencies, the administration of districts remains a question of local people. A board of five supervisors is provided for in the Virginia Soil Conservation Districts Law to administer the affairs of each district. Three members of the board are selected by the qualified voters of the district with the other two members being appointed by the State Soil Conservation Committee.

The three members of the Robert E. Lee District who were elected to office in the November 1946 election and whose terms expire January 1, 1950, are R. G. Anderson, Appomattox County; R. W. Mattaway, Buckingham County; and J. G. Ingo, Campbell County. The two appointed members are Thomas L. Seay, Jr., county agent from Cumberland County, and H. C. Mays, of Amherst County.

On November 8, qualified voters of the Robert E. Lee Soil Conservation District (Appomattox, Campbell, Buckingham, Cumberland and Amherst, excluding the incorporated towns) will elect three supervisors as prescribed under the district law. The State Soil Conservation Committee, with headquarters at Blacksburg, will receive petitions from candidates desiring to offer themselves for this position until August 20, 1949. Additional information and petition forms may be obtained from the local county agent or by writing to T. W. Mundie, Administrative Officer, State Soil Conservation Committee, Blacksburg, Virginia.

Local Plant Sets Record

Output at the Appomattox Garment Co.'s plants here has reached record proportions, and the company now employs some 350 workers. Making and shipping children's cotton dresses, in recent weeks the output has run up to 6,000 dozen per week. These dresses are sent to firms all over the United States for the retail trade.

Last Friday a record shipment of 30,000 dresses were shipped out by parcel post on one mail train. The nearly 400 packing* boxes required 33 minutes to load on the train's mail cars.

The company is working 2 shifts of employees daily. The shipping division is operated from the Main Street factory, and the production units from the large plant on U. S. 460.

Allotment For Wheat Given

An allotment of 502,092 wheat acres will be Virginia's share in the 1950 crop which will be produced under Government acreage controls, according to R. B. Bridgforth, state chairman of the Production and Marketing Administration.

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan recently announced acreage allotments will be in effect as a means of adjusting the 1950 wheat production to the prospective market demand. The national allotment, set at 62.9 million acres, represents a reduction of about 14 million acres below the 1949 crop acreage.

The total supply of wheat for the current marketing year, which began July 1, 1949, including a 300 million bushel carryover from last year, is expected to be 1,490 million bushels. Against this supply is an estimated domestic and export consumption during the current year of 1,170 million bushels. This will leave a wheat carryover of 320 million bushels on July 1, 1950.

To get the 1950 acreage allotment, the Secretary of Agriculture went back to the law as defined in the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938. The Act in effect says that the national allotment shall be an acreage on which the wheat production, plus carryover stocks, equals a normal year's consumption plus a 30 per cent reserve. A normal year's domestic and export consumption, about 1,100 million bushels, plus reserve, equals 1430 million bushels. This figure, when reduced by the July 1, 1950, estimated carryover of 320 bushels, leaves 1,110 million bushels as the amount of wheat production needed from the 1950 crop.

Bridgforth said that compilation of county allotments is about complete and that individual farm allotments will be mailed to producers by the County ACA offices well in advance of seeding time.

Schools Open September 9

Appomattox County Public Schools, both white and colored, will open at 9:00 A. M., Friday, September 9, 1949. All parents are urged to enter children on the first day of school. To do so saves later confusion and delay

Age of entrance. Children who are entering school for the first time must under the Virginia law be six years of age on or before September 30,1949.

Physical requirements: Parents are asked to see that the pupil is in as good physical condition as possible before entering school. It is especially desirable that the beginning pupil be examined before entering and present the usual medical and dental examiner's card. The pupil should bring a birth certificate on the first day of school and show a successful vaccination against smallpox or furnish a statement from the physician as to why vaccination is not desirable.

School attendance requirements: All able-bodied children between the ages of seven and sixteen are required by law to attend school.

What school to attend: Pupils should attend the school nearest to their home. School bus drivers are not permitted to take children past the school which they should attend. This procedure is absolutely necessary to avoid crowded conditions in schools and busses.
